

FORMULATION

Anxiety is a problem that significantly affects children, generating tensions that negatively impact family functioning. Although it is a common issue, many of these children do not receive the necessary support or information to manage it appropriately. This leads to adverse consequences, including interpersonal conflicts, difficulties in mental growth and development, and an increase in healthcare costs due to untreated mental health issues.